Semantic Technology Conference

June 21-25, 2010

The Semantic Technology Conference (SemTech) is the world's largest conference on semantic technologies. It is the only event focused on the commercialization of semantic technologies, bringing the most recognized names, knowledge, leadership, and innovation in the semantic community together in one location.

SemTech represents a full spectrum of business, government, and consumer activity within the field of semantic technology. This year's conference will be the most extensive to date. Over 1,200 attendees are expected including industry experts, researchers, analysts, content providers, developers, and technology enthusiasts who will listen to top presenters and industry leaders speak about the hottest trends in semantic technology today.

Technical and business-oriented sessions will be offered at beginner, intermediate, and advanced levels. Topics will include:

- Linked Data and Open Government
- The Social Fabric of Semantics
- Semantic Web Technologies at Nokia
- Ontology-Driven SOA Governance
- Semantics in Publishing
